Principal's Message

Principal's Message

Welcome parents, family, friends, and our excited audience! On behalf of Bev Facey Community school, I want to thank each of you for attending what will be an amazing performance and for supporting our hard-working ultra-talented cast of students. They have shown passion, commitment, and loyalty to one another all through the journey of preparing for this production. In doing so they truly have represented the very best of what it means to be a Bev Facey Falcon. It has been my pleasure over the last few months to see firsthand the intense work and awesome results that our students have been able to achieve, and now tonight they will get to share that with all of you on the stage!

It has been truly inspiring to see our cast rally around each other and along with the excellent guidance of our drama staff they have created an optimal environment for each of them to take risks and excel in their individual and group performances. Each of our students have worked long hours and have all taken turns at leading one another to continually raise the bar in this production. The entire cast's commitment and passion is a testament to the fantastic artistic learning environment that we support and benefit from within the Bev Facey community.

To See the Stars is a true story of the fight for women's labour rights in America in the early nineteen-hundreds. More than a century later, the struggle to ensure equal pay for equal work and guarantee humane working conditions is far from over around the world. This powerful story remains relevant to our times, and continues to inform and inspire.

Your ongoing support of the Bev Facey Performing and Creative Arts program is greatly appreciated. Thank you again for your patronage and on being the positive catalyst in the audience for all our students—now, please sit back, clear your thoughts, and let our cast transport you to someplace special!

Director's Notes

Director's Notes

In 1909, the union movement in America was already a century and a half old. In theory, unions defended the rights of all; in practice, the pay and working conditions for women were far inferior to those of men. Thousands of young immigrant women, underpaid compared to their male counterparts, worked long hours under harsh conditions in the shirtwaist factories of New York City. In a determined bid to make union strength work for them, these women sought support from the National Women's Trade Union League of America and declared an industry-wide strike.

Led by a brave young Jewish immigrant who spoke little English, the Uprising of the 20 000 took Clara Lemlich and her fellow workers into the streets in November of 1909. Violent conflicts with the factory owners, the police and all-male union bosses did not deter the group. In February of 1910, the strike was finally settled, with the garment workers receiving better pay and improved working conditions, changes which benefited non-union members as well. That this occurred a decade before women were able to vote in America underscores the strength and determination of the garment workers to gain a measure of fairness in their lives.

Director's Notes

To See the Stars chronicles this milestone for American workers' rights, and for the broader rights of women in society. The time, the setting and the intensity of this true story have provided my Drama 20/30 students with a singular challenge, which they have met and indeed exceeded. We have all learned a great deal, and I am very proud of the results that you see here this evening.

Enjoy the show!
